Mr. Bhinelander's Iron Blinds to Ob truct Obnoxious Windows.

And There's Trouble Now Between Him and Mr. Gillespie.

A Flat That Was Built Despite Aristocratic Protests.

A modern brown-stone flat house, five stories high, with all the latest improvements, has oo ed no end of trouble on Twelfth street, be tween Sixth and Seventh avenues.

The house is numbered 130. Thomas Gillespie, a pushing young builder, began its erection last August. It was ready for occupancy about the 1st of

It is a very desirable location, and tenants filled it up fast.

This flat has given great offense, however, to several large property-holders having houses ad-joining and adjacent to it.

Nearly all the other houses on the block are old-fashioned, roomy brick dwellings with high stoops, that have been occupied by the same tenants for years.

Many of these tenants strenuously objected to

Many of these tenants strenuously objected to having a lot of new people introduced into the neighborhood, especially in a fist house.

The Rhinelander family is one of the largest property-holders on the block.

William Rhinelander owns the four houses immediately east of the flat house.

William Rhinelander owns about six other houses in the vicinity.

Before the flat-house was erected the Rhinelanders went to Mr. Gillespie and asked him to abandon the project. He thought this was preity nervy on their part and refused to do so. He guaranteed, however, that his tenants should be unexceptionable in their character, and in this respect he has kept his word.

The next thing that horrified the old-time residents about there was the knowledge that Rr. Gillespie meant to run his flat right out to the stoop line, which is about eight feet beyond the ine of the neighboring buildings.

Again, big property-holders went to him and asked him at least to build his flat even with the other houses on the block.

Mr. Gillispie refused to throw away eight good feet of space.

In silent indiguation then, the neighbors watched the building go up.

It was built and completed in first-class style, with two flats of seven rooms on each floor.

To cap the climax, Mr. Gillespie decided to piece the side walls in front with two windows, one east, one west, one such floor.

Again Mr. Rhinelander went to him and remonstrated, but in vain.

The windows went in as Mr. Gillespie directed. This made it possible for any curious tenant in the flat-house, and the rooms of his neighbors.

Bright and early Menday morning workmen began to hang heavy sheet-iron shutters over the windows in the eastern wall of the flat.

They were supported by heavy iron bars, attached to Mr. Rhinelander's house, No. 128.

The charters do not touch Mr. Gillespie's house at all, but they are within an eighth of an inch of it. Painted red, they resemble somewhat the wall, and effectually shut out daylight and test and the last one was thus hidden from the flat, and

The tenants in the house are dismayed.

Mr. Dve. of Dye & Castree, was at the flathouse when the reporter went there to-day.

He was very indignant. He did not know what MS (Hillespie would do to "get square," but he promises to fill the house with tenants, even if they have to be admitted without reference.

Mr. Unison, the lesse of the house No. 128, said this morning:

"Mr. Rhinelander thought of putting up those shutters himself. It is his own idea. It is a very good one, I think, because as matters stood before, our house was easy of access to any one in the first who might care to swing himself from one window to the other."

The old settlers are chuckling, while the new blood is anxiously awaiting some action on Mr. Gillespie's part.

Crawford was employed as bookkeeper of the Tuxede Club until March 15 last, when Mr. Potter dismissed him for intoxication.

A few days afterwards three checks, with Mr. Potter's name forged to them, were presented for payment at Brown Brothers, bankers, in Wall street. One had been passed on Charles T. Everett, of the Empire Laundry, 152 West Houston street, for $110; one for $82 on Holland & Co., coftee. 82 Water street, and one for $62 had been passed on Henry Hildebrand, of $29 Tenth avenus, where Crawford used to board.

Buspicion fell on the ex-bookkeeper, and Detective Mulholland, of inspector Byrnes's staff, learned that his favorite resort in this city was the White Elephant.

Thursday night, as Crawford came in, Mulholland approached and innocently saluted him as Mr. Livingstone. Thursday man had been as my Livingstone." Was the reply. It is Crawford. Crawford made a desperate effort to escape, and rushed down in the cellar and hid in the coal-bin.
Mulholland dragged him out, though, and locked him up.

HELEN BANCROFT'S LOSS.

In a few moments she came, a tail, slender girl, handsomely dressed, and with a huge diamond stay blasting at her threat.

'Oh, there isn't much in it," she exclaimed?
'I vaine the pin for its associations. It is a cherished souvenir. A friend gave it me last Christmas, It is a preity pin in blue and red ename!, with a diamond head. I used to wear it in 'Antony and Cleopatra,' and the troupe called it the 'baby asp.'

'Last Friday afternoon I pinned my belt with it and eams here for rehearaal. It was raining and I had to hold up my skirts. I suppose I brushed the clasp loose and it worked out. the time. The round was purely give and take and body work. LANNON FINDS HIS RIGHT.

LANNON FINDS HIS RIGHT.

Lannon salast found use for his right in the twelfth round and caught Ashton on the law, and this was the best blow that Joe struck during the fight. The opening was a good one and was duly improved upon, Jack was quick to recover and retalisted with a volley of left-handers on Lannon's face and body—five blows in all. Ashton turned to avoid the counter and Lannon got in a solid blow on Jack's neck and sent him spinning, but he held his feet.

The thirteenth—Ashton worked for an opportunity on Lannon's face, and used his left and right beautifully. Lannon returned the compliment with a right upper cut on Jack's jaw.

In response to a suggestion from John L. Bullivan that Joe ought to have some use for his right, ashton was riled up by this and he sailed in and used his right and left until he had got in seven face blows and made Lannou very groggy, the calling of time alone saving Joe from heing knocked out there and then.

The fourteenth was Jack Ashton's from first to last. Lannon came up somewhat bewildered, and he was beginning to quit. He had not force enough to hit a hard blow and Ashton had him at his mercy, pounding him in the face and body, blocking everything that his opponent offered, with the exception of one in the jaw.

Lannon again braced up in the fifteenth, opening with his laft on Ashton's neck—a nasty crack, too. He followed this up with a right upper cut on Jack's jaw, Ashton returning with vigor on Joe's face and jaw.

A MONIC FOR ASHTON. SULLIVAN MAKES A SUGGESTION.

A PIONIC FOR ASSTON. The sixteenth was a picute for Ashton, who played a merry tattoo on Lannon's eyes, face and body. Joe found time to drive out a straight arm blow and to make Jack's teeth rattle. This nettled Ashton, who tried the upper out, and with good effect.

LANSON & LAST OPPORTUNITY.

In the accenteeth round Ashton opened on Lannon's left eve. He was speedily repaid by Lannon, who contributed two face blows and nearly took Jack off his feet. Lannon might have made the fight interesting for Jack here, but he neglected to follow up his opportunity. In the eighteenth round, which was to be the closing one. Ashton went in to win. He rammed Lannon all over the lot, striking hard and true, and every blow told heavily, although Lannon met Jack in good form.

Another round was called for, and the men came up, Ashton strong and eager for a settling of the old disputes, while Lannon was groggy.

LANNON GOES DOWN.

Jack saw that by forcing the fighting he could knock his man out, and he proceeded to do so. He drove him to the centre of the ring, and then let him have a paster with his left, and Lannon went down like a log. As soon as he could get to his feet Lannon squared off, but he boald not resist the furious assaults of Ashton, who swung his right and left in until another knock-down ensued.

Launon's seconds raised him to his feet, and Asiton, leaving his corner, crossed over to Lannon and punched Joe over the ropes, where he lay helpless, so dazed that he did not know where he was.

The referee gave the fight and the purse of $1,000 to Ashton.

After the fight Ashton was found to have a swoilen ear and one lumpy cheek, while Lanton's face was bruised and black and blue, and he complained of a severe pain in his chest.

NO BLOOD SPILLED.

No BLOOD SPILLED.

Neither man brought blood on his opponent, and the fight was decided on a knock-out pure and simple. Ashton's hands showed no effects of the pounding he gave Lannon.

The crowd waked another mile and a half to get to the return train and reached Providence at 4 o'clock this morning.

There was additional interest in the fight owing to Ashton having had the advantage of having constantly sparred with Sullivan on the latter's European trip, and it was supposed that he would show great improvement.

The Day in Wall Street.

The week closed in Wall street with a more confident feeling, the reports that the Atchison, lopeka & Santa Pé Raiiroad was about to be placed in the hands of a receiver having failed to materialize.

The bank statement showed a loss of only $1,248,800 in surplus reserve and this also had a tendency to strongthen the market. The banks now hold $5,450,125 in excess of legal requirements. The following are the comparative figures:

That's What President Day Says of the Polo Grounds.

If the Street Is Not Graded the Giants Will Play There.

The Commissioner of Public Works Only a Small Obstacle-

'pink of condition,"
From the station, Mr. Day, with his wife, drove directly to the "Osborne," and an hour after his arrival in his charming apartments gave a cordial welcome to an Evening World reporter.

"I am in a much better position to ask for news than to give it," said Mr. Day. 'What about the Polo Grounds? Does any one know what to expect from the Aldermen? The situation was explained to the champion President in a few words, and then the reporter by the constion.

President in a few words, and then the reporter put the question:

"In case the Aldermen resolve to grade the street and you lose the Polo Grounds, would you prefer the Giants to play on Staten Island or the Jersey City Grounds," was the smiling response. "But," remarked he, "You see I have not and don't expect that we shall be obliged to move from the Polo Grounds this season. I think our request to defer the grading until Oct, I a perfectly just and reasonable one and in spite of all the talk to the coutrary. I am of the opinion that the Board of Aldermen will so decide. I don't care a rap what Commissioner Smith does with the fences. He can take them all down if he has the power and chooses to use it.

cide. I don't care a rap what Commissioner Smith does with the fences. He can take them all down if he has the power and chooses to use it.

"Until the street is graded it certainly can't be used by others than mountaineers and goats, for the level of the grounds is much lower than that of the surrounding avenues.

"If the Board refuses to grade the street you can depend upon it that the Club will play ball on the Polo Grounds another season."

In regard to the Ward matter Mr. Day had but little to say, but that little was enough to show that in all probability John M. Ward will play in Washington this season.

"Ward, "said Mr. Day," asked me last Fall to obtain his release to either Boston or Washington. I compiled with his request, and pow, so far as I am concerned, Ward is a member of the Washington Club. He was in his right mind when, last Fall, he said that he didn't care to play here another season, and I can't see that he has any reason for thinking differently now.

"It has been stated in the papers, I know, that Ward would prefer to remain here if he received as large a salary as Washington is willing to pay, a but I hardly think that Ward meant that steech, for certainly after what he has said a about being handicapped by the management, I can't see how he could consistently play ball here this season."

When asked it, Mr. Day said:

"Ward will, in all probability, make an excellent captain and manager for the Washington in case he asked it, Mr. Day said:

"Ward will, in all probability, make an excellent captain and manager for the Washington in case he asked it, Mr. Day said:

"Ward will, in all probability, make an excellent captain and manager for the washing-tons, and they need such a one. We have, I think, a thoroughly competent management."

Mr. Day expressed himself as greatly pleased with the reports which have reached him from yarous quarters in regard to the uniformly good condition in which the Giants have reported for duty.

Mr. Hewitt is in town, and Ward may become a Senator before nigh

Their store was insured for $2,500, and was damaged to the extent of $1,500.

Fire Marshal Mitchell, upon investigating the fire, came to the conclusion that it was of incendary origin, and, from the facts gathered, caused the arrest to be made.

The store is on the ground floor of a four-story tenement-house, and when the fire broke out it occasioned a panic, many of the tenants rushing half clad into the street.

They will be arraigned in the General Sessions on the charge of arson.

They were taken to the District-Attorney's office, and the arrest having been made on a bench warrant, the commitment was signed by the Clerk of the Court of General Sessions. They were taken to the Tombs.

New Yorker. He was saved, as was Pay Inspector Ambrose J. Clark, who was for a long time Inspector of Provisions at the Brooslyn Navyseeault.

Miss Richheimer, who was very pale and exhausted, told the story of the assault to Justice Patterson. Last night, she starded a dancing school at Liberty Hail. Houseon and Suffolk streets. About 10.30 o'clock she started for home at 15 Clinton street, where she resides with her aunt, her parents being in Germany.

When she reached the door she was attacked by five men.

They threw a her into the hallway, stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth and assaulted her. In the struggle the handkerchief was removed from her mouth, when she screamed for help. Officer Cowen, of the Eidridge street station, responded to her cries and found the men still in the hallway.

At the point of his revolver the officer captured two of them, who proved to be Stark and Miller. The other three escaped.

On the approach of the officer one of the men drew a revolver and threatened to kill the girl if she made an outcry.

Stark and Miller pleaded not guilty in court and were committed without bail.

Caut. Cassidy's fetectives are scouring the east side for the three missing men. Yard.
At the office of August Flegel, the German Consul-General, no mivices had been received regarding the disaster, and the Consul-General was unable to give any information as to who were the officers and crews of the three German men-of-war at Samoa.
A brief cablegram was received at the Maritime Exchange this morning, confirming the report.

brother. John Corwine, Passed Assistant Paymaster on the Nipsic, a letter, which is as follows:

"Auckland, New Zealand.—Nipsic on shore at Apia. All officers saved and well."

The cablegram was received in New York at 1 oclock this morning, and was delivered to Mr. Corwine at his office at 9 oclock. It came from Auckland by way of London.

Mr. Corwine had a list of the wives and relatives of the officers of the Nipsic, and he immediately sent telegrams to the following:

Mrs. Richard G. Davenport, wife of the Lieutemant commanding: Mrs. John Corwine, of No. 149 Milton street, Brooklyn. E. D.: Mrs. Lieut. John M. Hawley, of Maiden, Mass.; Mrs. H. E. Grick, 1732 North Twenty-second street, Philadelphis: Mrs. G. G. Fillette, at the Navy-Yard, Warrington, Fla. Mrs. E. Z. Derr. in care of Mrs. R. W. Latham, New Brunswick, N. J.: Mrs. G. W. Hall. Syractise, N. V., Mrs. E. A. Vainesar, 23 Mount Veroon street, Charlestou, Mrs. Mary N. Purcell, Lambertville, N. J.: D. E. Seymour, Calais, Me.; Miss. A. A. Hrown, East Pain street, Columbia, S. C.; Col. H. P. Jones, of Hanover, Vs.

The list was left with Mrs. Corwine before the departure of the Nipsic that the friends might be notified in an emergency of this kind. The Nipsic salied Jan. 18, 1888, Louching at Cape de Verde Islands, Montevidee, South America; Caliso, Peru, and going thence to Apia, Samoa.
